NOTES

Halloween is officially in the rearview mirror, so bring on the holiday baking! If you have the freezer space, start early — you can freeze homemade cookies for about three months without loss of flavor. Starting after Halloween means you can use some of the kids' candy stash in your treats or stock up on chocolates and other non-Halloween specific treats since they'll be heavily discounted.

Customized gifts let the recipient know you really care. Current ship times for personalized gifts are around one to three weeks but you should plan for extra delays as orders ramp up as the holidays approach. Get started on your orders now to make sure your special presents arrive in time.

The long weekend is perfect for getting outside and burning off some of the calories from your Thanksgiving feast by putting up your lights, Nativity scenes and blow-up Santas.

NOTES

Craving the smell of fresh pine? This is the ideal weekend to get your freshly cut tree, as they usually last about four weeks. This timing guarantees your tree will make it through New Year's Day.

Verify the last day for ground shipping with your preferred shipping vendor to ensure your gifts make it in time.

If you haven't quite gotten to everyone on your list, you may be starting to stress. But "Super Saturday," the last Saturday before Christmas Eve, is actually an ideal time to get steep savings on a variety of last-minute gifts!

December 26-31: Shop for discounted holiday decor and wrapping supplies

Although you may be tempted to forget about all things merry and bright until next year, now is the time to stock up on holiday decor and wrapping supplies, which are typically discounted starting this week. When the Yuletide rolls around again next year, your future self will thank you for your foresight.
